

How do I get my Coronavirus Economic Impact Payment (AKA Stimulus Check)?

Things to remember:

- To reduce confusion, we are using the term Economic Impact Payment (abbreviated as EIP) as much as possible in this document, instead of "stimulus check"
- For all of the scenarios below, you must be an eligible US citizen or Permanent Resident, or be a Resident Alien with a valid Social Security Number to receive an Economic Impact Payment
- Recipients of income sources marked with an asterisk ( * ) will generally have access to an automatic payment. However, if you have income from any of these sources and have a spouse or dependent in your household, you may still need to use the IRS non-filers web tool and complete the online forms to receive the correct amount of funds on your EIP (with additional funds for a dependent or spouse)
- The IRS non-filers web tool can be found at <https://www.irs.gov/coronavirus/non-filers-enter-payment-info-here>
- This document is a work in progress. For questions or to submit corrections, please email marisae@nwpilotproject.org

My source of monthly income in 2019 was... (Please select an option that covers all the types of income you receive and reflects your situation)	Does the IRS have the information needed to issue me an Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?	How do I get my Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?
Only SSI (Supplemental Security Income)*, no other source of income. This means that your current income is $783/mo for an individual, or $1175/mo for a couple. And last year, your income was $771 for an individual, and $1157/mo for a couple.	Yes. On 4/15/20 the US Department of the Treasury announced that "SSI recipients will now receive automatic payments... just as they would normally receive their SSI payments," no longer requiring the use of the IRS non-filers web tool for SSI recipients without dependents.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail. Note: This payment will NOT be counted as income or resources for 12 months and thus will not affect SSI eligibility.
Only SSDI (Social Security Disability Income) or SSDI plus another source of income Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Social Security eligibility.	Yes. The IRS will use information from a Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail.
Only Social Security Retirement* or Social Security Retirement* plus another source of income Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Social Security eligibility.	Yes. The IRS will use information from a Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail.

How do I get my Coronavirus Economic Impact Payment (Stimulus Check)?

My source of monthly income in 2019 was...  (Please select an option that covers all the types of income you receive and reflects your situation)	Does the IRS have the information needed to issue me an Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?	How do I get my Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?
Only Social Security Survivor's Benefits*  or  Social Security Survivor's Benefits* plus another source of income Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Social Security eligibility.	Yes. The IRS will use information from a Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail.
Only Social Security Railroad Retirement*  or  Social Security Railroad Retirement* plus another source of income Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Social Security eligibility.	Yes. The IRS will use information from a Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail.
Only Veterans Administration (VA) Disability Compensation, VA Survivor's Benefits, or VA Pension Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Veterans Administration eligibility.	No. If your only sources of income were not SSI, SSDI, Social Security Retirement, Social Security Survivor's Benefits, or Social Security Railroad Retirement, the IRS is not using the Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Use the IRS non-filers web tool and complete the online forms to receive your EIP.
Veterans Administration (VA) Disability Compensation, VA Survivor's Benefits, or VA Pension  plus  SSI*, SSDI*, Social Security Retirement*, Social Security Survivor's Benefits*, or Social Security Railroad Retirement* Total monthly amount can vary, depending on Social Security eligibility.	Yes. Because one of your sources of income is SSI, SSDI, Social Security Retirement, Social Security Survivor's Benefits, or Social Security Railroad Retirement, the IRS will use information from a Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the account where your monthly income is usually deposited or you will receive a check by mail.

How do I get my Coronavirus Economic Impact Payment (Stimulus Check)?

My source of monthly income in 2019 was...  (Please select an option that covers all the types of income you receive and reflects your situation)	Does the IRS have the information needed to issue me an Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?	How do I get my Economic Impact Payment (EIP)?
Earned income, and did file taxes last year or in 2018. Most likely this means your annual income was at or above $12,200 for an individual or $24,400 for a couple.	Yes. The IRS will use information from your last tax return to send your EIP to you.	Your EIP will arrive in the form of an automatic payment. This will go to the direct deposit account listed on your last tax return or you will receive a check by mail.
Earned income, and did NOT file taxes last year or in 2018. How you get your EIP will depend on whether or not your income was at or above $12,200 for an individual or $24,400 for a couple.	No. If had no income tax liability last year or in 2018 and your income was not SSDI, Social Security Retirement, Social Security Survivor's Benefits, or Social Security Railroad Retirement, the IRS is not using the Social Security Administration form called SSA-1099 nor is it using information from your last tax return to send your EIP to you.	If you didn't file because your income was too low to owe income taxes, use the IRS non-filers web tool and complete the online forms to receive your EIP. If you didn't file but you did owe income taxes, you must file a 2019 tax return to receive your EIP.